Crisis control model

Putting off a fire or minimising damage

Integrated Support is not a crisis control model.

It is more of an Quality Assurance Model.

You are putting into practice strategies that will try to ensure that the client is successful.

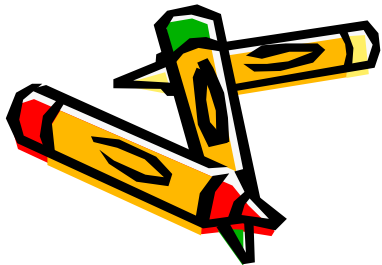

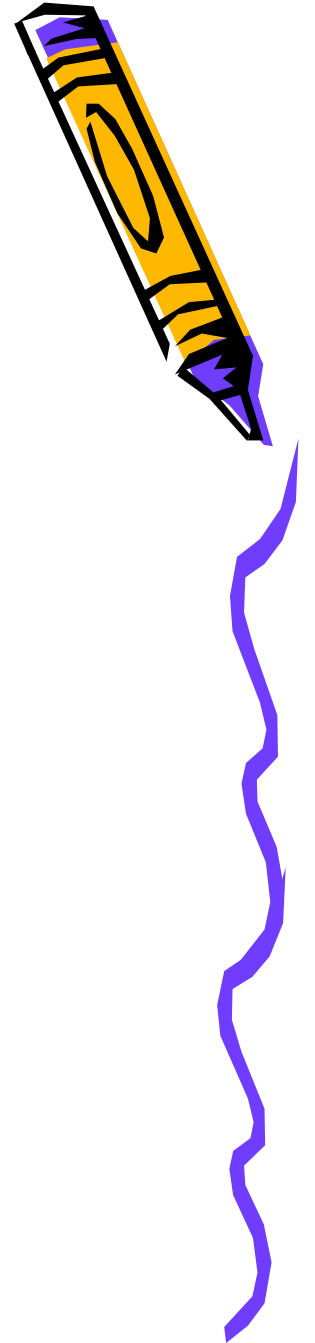

- Aim of Integrated support is to stop the potential fire
- Alleviate potential fire hazards
- Provide a scaffolding which prevents students from slipping through.

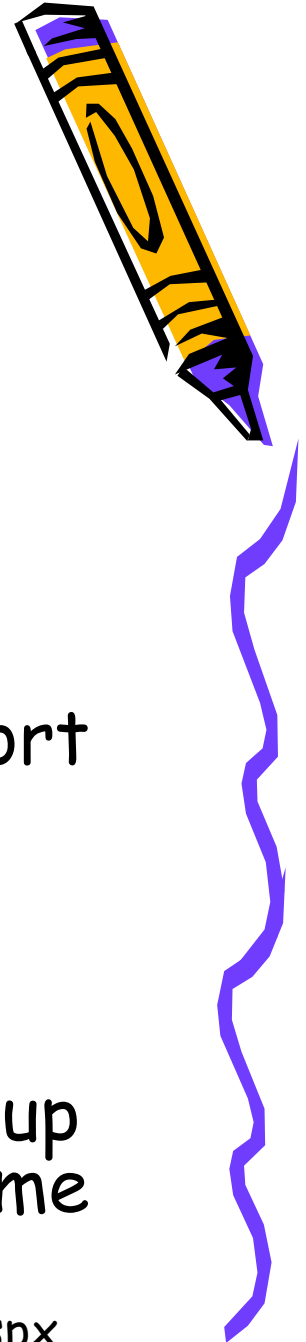

- Traditional learning support -
REACTIVE process.

- The process we have adopted at
BRIT is a PROACTIVE one.

CAVSS - Course in Applied Vocational Study Skills

What is CAVSS?

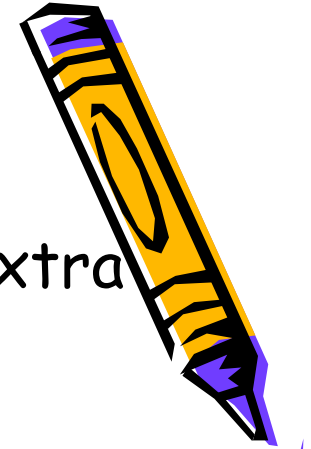

- CAVSS is a framework for teaching literacy and numeracy skills in direct application to VET training activities.
- CAVSS is a delivery strategy for integrating literacy and numeracy support with vocational training.
- It is a teaching methodology - team-teaching. Team teaching in CAVSS is defined as a vocational lecturer and a literacy lecturer teaching the same group of students in the same place at the same time.

Team-teaching has a number of benefits:

- no student is singled out as being in need of extra support, since all students in the group have access to the support as they need it.
- the literacy and numeracy support is always relevant to the industry skills the students really want to learn
- the collaborative model of teaching provides a model for students whose behaviour becomes more collaborative as a result
- a collaborative learning environment, access to an extra teacher and the opportunity to revise maths or literacy skills all help students to focus on learning and the student success rate improves as a result.
